

40+ Events a day to loss of Diagnosis

This story of hope starts with a child having 40 or more episodes a day and parents fearing what looked like seizures while navigating a regression into Autism. Pushing forward with whatever insight she could find, Andi Stowe found nutrition and diet as a solution. She was able to identify how impactful “food as medicine” could be and has witnessed her son blossom into a fully engaged and thriving boy who has lost his Autism diagnosis and all others. Listening to the journey and the obstacles they encountered helps us continue to find inspiration for our kids.
